I received an email from a lady named Julie Ames, who tracked me down through an email search. She had found this photo in a collection and did a search for "Dick Violette" and came up with my name associated with some stories about my father, Dick. I told her that it was not my father in the photo, but would try to find the right family. Julie said she would be happy to send this photo on to the family to whom it belongs if they wanted it.

What an offer! And out of the blue!

Is this YOUR Dick Violette, from the World War II era?
